

My Focus on Serving You

Listening to your needs.

I listen carefully to thoroughly understand your lifestyle, your preferred neighborhood or area of interest and what features you value in a home. I work diligently to insure that my services complement your needs, and the properties I show you meet your expectations.

Earning your trust.

I believe trust must be earned through a sincere interest in you, the client. I'm committed to being attentive, working hard and providing you with in-depth knowledge of the community.

Finding your dream home.

There is more to a dream home than three bedrooms and two baths. Experience has taught me to ask a lot of questions — to probe below the surface. I'll help you articulate your needs in order to find the perfect home.

Finding a qualified buyer for your home.

Selling a home involves much more than simply placing the property on the Multiple Listing Service (MLS®). It includes aggressively marketing your property through every available resource and following up with every prospective buyer. And, I'll share the post-showing feedback with you to help guarantee success.

Leaving the decision up to you.

I believe in providing you, my client, with all the information regarding the sale or purchase of a home and then stepping back and letting you make the decision.

Handling the details.

You can count on me to guide you through the complex transaction process of selling or buying a home. I handle the details and complete the paperwork.

Acting as your resource center.

Whether you need home repairs, inspections, home insurance, home warranty, mortgage services, title services or security services, I can provide you with reliable professional resources in all of these fields.

Negotiating with expertise.

Negotiating the price is a highly sensitive pressure point in the sale and purchase of a home. My ability to apply even-handed diplomacy in price negotiations and terms of sale will help bring about a satisfactory result for everyone involved.
